

Drive to Impeach Members of High Court Promised

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment which would make Supreme Court justices subject to Senate approval every four years was introduced yesterday by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC), a committee member. Eastland called the move "an attempt to save our form of government."

Almost simultaneously, Representatives Andrews (D-Ala.) and Wilson (R-Ill.) said they are sponsoring a move to win support among House colleagues to start impeachment proceedings against all the members of the court.

"We hope to have at least 100 members of the House either sponsor the resolution or introduce individual resolutions of their own," Andrews said. "We are getting one of the best lawyers in America to prepare an impeachment resolution."

Eastland and Johnston introduced their amendment proposal after the Supreme Court yesterday set aside three contempt of Congress convictions growing out of investigations of communism by the Senate Internal Security subcommittee and the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Eastland is chairman and Johnston a member of the Senate subcommittee. Both also have been critical of the court's rulings against racial segregation in schools and other public places.

The Supreme Court, in reversing the three contempt convictions, directed a lower court to reconsider the cases in the light of its decision last week overruling the contempt conviction of John T. Watkins, an Illinois union leader. Watkins had refused to answer questions of the House committee about anti-communist associates.

The court said in the Watkins case that congressional committees must be more specific in their questioning and that Congress must be more exact in defining the jurisdiction and purposes of its committees.

Eastland accused the court of "attempting to consolidate all governmental power in its own hands," and added in an interview that "in the last three years the court has indeed not entirely new meaning on our Constitution."

Eastland said the court has become "a policy-making body" and its members "therefore must be approved by the people for the people's representatives" at regular intervals like other government officials.

A like view was taken by Johnston, but Kefauver, chairman of the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee, said the court provides "a balance wheel that performs a very useful function."

"I think it would be less effective if it were subjected to political considerations in this way," he said.

The adoption of a constitutional amendment requires the approval of the Senate and the House by a two-thirds majority and ratification by three-fourths of the states.

Two Accidents, One Person Is Injured

Two accidents were investigated by City Police yesterday, resulting in injury to one person and considerable property damage.

At Third and Hervey streets an auto driven by John Henry Howard of Texas collided with a Wheeling Pipeline Co. truck driven by Eddie L. Young of Shreveport.

Michael Copeland, 3-year-old boy riding in the Texas car, suffered a head injury. Officers placed a charge of running a stop sign against Howard.

The right side of the pipeline truck was heavily damaged.

At Elm and Division vehicles driven by Harold Harris of Hope and Lou Freda Cheatham of McNab collided and the Harris auto was considerably damaged. City Officers charged the McNab driver with failure to yield the right-of-way.

Waives Hearing on Liquor Charge

Luther Bishop, local Negro, charged with violating the federal liquor laws, waived a hearing Monday before U. S. Commissioner Thelma Whitman at Texarkana. Bond was set at $500. A complaint filed by the Alcohol Tax Unit charges Bishop with possession of untaxed whiskey. He was arrested by Hope police.

Driver Hopes to Get Craft Underway

CLARENDON (AP) — Gerald Wright, the dry land pilot of a 41-foot boat, hoped to get his craft under sail again today after five enforced days in harbor here.

Wright, whose home is De Ruyter, N.Y., is towing the boat from Morgan City, La., where it was built to Colonial Beach, Va.

A hump-backed railroad crossing in one direction and a low underpass on an alternate route — neither of which the yacht can negotiate — halted Wright there for five days while he waited for instructions from his employer.

These came yesterday, and today Wright planned to move by a new route — backtracking on U. S. Highway 79 to Stuttgart, thence on State 11 to Searcy and from there on U. S. 87 through Missouri and eventually on to Virginia.

Small Sum Leads to $4.5 Million Scandal

CHICAGO (UP) — State's Attorney Benjamin S. Adamowski disclosed today that a discrepancy in a $55 real estate tax item led to the discovery of Cook County's $4,500,000 tax scandal.

Adamowski, a self-styled "political maverick" who jumped from the Democratic to the Republican party, predicted that the developing scandal will "blow the lid off" the Democratic-controlled county building.

The scandal involves the failure of employees in County Treasurer Herbert C. Paschen's office to collect full penalties on tax delinquent property after foreclosure sales, presumably in return for bribes.

One real estate man already has been paid of $100,000 bribe, but he came up before the county grand jury last week. Adamowski has appealed for others who paid bribes to come forward and tell their stories in return for immunity.

Interviewed in his spacious, air-conditioned office, Adamowski said the scandal already has overshadowed the Hodge case, in which former State Auditor Orville Hodge was convicted of looting the state treasury of an estimated $2,800,000.

"And this current case is even more vicious," Adamowski said. "In the Hodge case, a man took actual funds. In this case, thieves public employees have prevented the county from collecting its legitimate due."

"This affects future county budgets and spreads a higher tax burden over the backs of honest taxpayers."

Adamowski said his discovery of the scandal was "no accident."

"I had heard rumors during my campaign for state's attorney last fall, but my staff and I hadn't been able to pin them down and we began to think they were just rumors," he said.

"It never occurred to us the crooks would use the legitimate tax foreclosure process. We were discussing it at a staff meeting one day and the possibility suddenly dawned on us."

Officer Who Slapped Airman Is Fired

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — A police officer, accused of slapping an unidentified 18-year-old airman, was fired by the City Council last night for "conduct unbecoming an officer."

Officers Buddy Crook said he became disgruntled when the youth, an airman stationed at the Little Rock Air Force Base, "lied" in a courtroom. Crook, who had been with the police force here six years, did not elaborate.

The council meeting in special session, met after the airman's commanding officer complained of the incident. Crook's dismissal was approved by a 4 to 2 vote.

Declares American Men Afraid to Be Fashionable

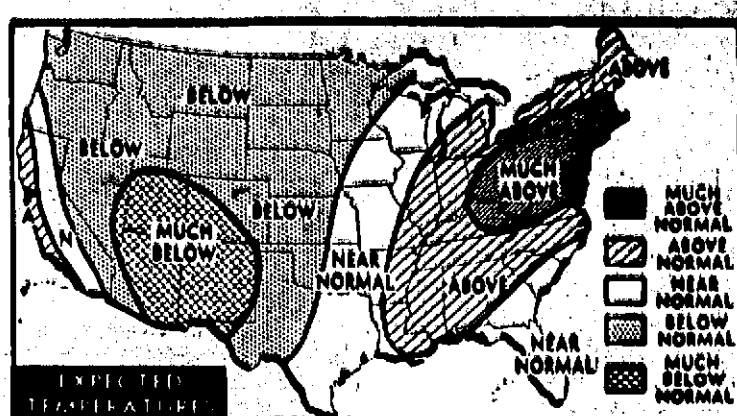

BY HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "American men are the best built in the world," said Francesca Lebow.

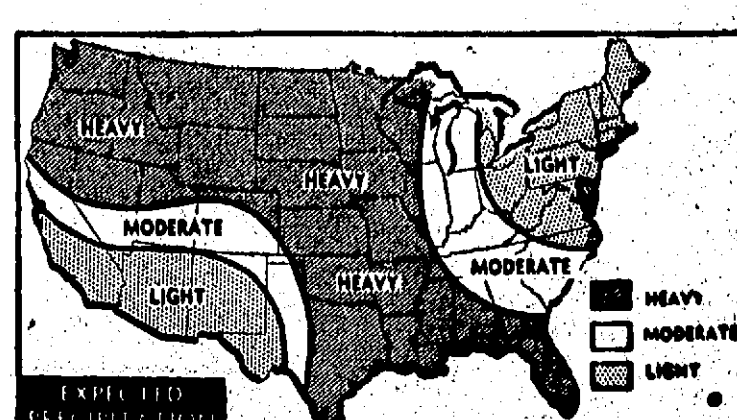

"They are also as vain as any men in the world. But, unlike women, they aren't frank and wholesome about their vanity. They yearn to look well in their clothes, but they are scared to death of being called fashionable."

"They think it's silly," said Mrs. Lebow, a fashion consultant on what men should wear, said the cowardly American male's fear of the word "fashion" is one of the clothing industry's greatest obstacles.

"We'd give thousands of dollars to anyone who could come up with a new term that would make men proud of being fashionable — conscious instead of frightened. The word 'style' won't do. For some reason men think it sounds cheap when

From now until the middle of July it will be plenty hot in the northeastern section. Above-normal heat will also hit most of the East and Midwest. Nearly all the western section will enjoy below-normal temperatures. Only a narrow section in the nation's center will have near-normal temperatures for the period.

Heavy rainfall is expected to pelt most of the nation. The northeastern section will have light rain, as will the southwest. Moderate precipitation is expected in an area extending from the Great Lakes down through the Carolinas to the coast, and from lower Texas to the California coast.

Plane Hits a House, Pilot, Woman Killed

DERMOTT (AP) — A jet plane bearing U. S. Air Force markings burst into flames and crashed into a farm house a few miles south of here today. An elderly woman at the house was killed. The pilot's body was found a short distance from the crash scene.

Authorities here identified the dead woman as Mrs. Slater C. Jones, who was believed standing at the rear of her house or just inside the back door when the flaming jet roared in.

Her husband, who was in the front part of the house, was not injured.

W. C. Hardwick, a witness, said he saw the jet "burst into flames at just about ground level" and that "something" left the plane shortly before the crash.

It was believed that the pilot was yet unidentified, and rejected himself from the falling aircraft.

His body was found about a half mile from the wreckage.

The impact scattered burning debris over a wide area. Pieces of the plane were scattered in and around the Jones house, which was partly destroyed by the flames.

An Air Force helicopter, reportedly from the Greenville, Miss., Air Force Base, reached the scene a short time after the 10 a.m. accident.

The Jones home is located about two miles northeast of the Belvoir community.

Mrs. Mack Stuart Succumbs at Her Home Tuesday

Mrs. Elizabeth Hall Stuart, wife of Mack Stuart, died at her home shortly before 1 p. m. today. Death was due to a heart attack.

Besides her husband she is survived by two brothers, Hugh B. Hall of Hope and Eugene Hall of Mena; three sisters, Mrs. Louis Bandy of DeQuincy, Mrs. Perry Moses of Hope and Mrs. Edna Earl Hall of San Antonio.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Oakerest.

Move to Bar Witness in Hoffa Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys defending Jimmy Hoffa against bribery-conspiracy charges lost today their attempt to bar the government's key witness from testifying.

Judge Burnita S. Matthews ruled that the witness, John C. Cheasty, a New York attorney, should be permitted to testify.

She said defense counsel could then try to establish a cross-examination, his contention that Cheasty and Hoffa had established a lawyer-client relationship.

Hoffa and a fellow defendant, Hyman I. Fischbach, Miami attorney, are accused of bribing Cheasty to take a job on the Senate Rackets Committee's staff and keep Hoffa informed on the committee's secrets.

Without Cheasty's testimony, the government would have great difficulty in proving its charges against the 44-year-old Detroit labor leader.

Hoffa's chief defense counsel, Edward Bennett Williams, challenged the government's right to take testimony from Cheasty on two grounds. One was the alleged use of wiretaps to obtain evidence against Hoffa, a charge the government has flatly denied.

The other, Williams told the court, was that Cheasty established a lawyer-client relationship with Hoffa and thus should not testify about his talks with the union leader. Cheasty allegedly accepted $3,000 as a down payment on a total $18,000 fee the government contends Hoffa promised him for being a secret informer.

Cheasty was hired by the Senate committee but secretly told committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) and the FBI about the arrangement and helped them develop the case against Hoffa.

Hoffa, a possible successor to Dave Beck as president of the powerful Teamsters Union, was pictured by prosecutor Edward P. Trossel yesterday as a "pimp" giver who conspired with his co-defendant, Hyman I. Fischbach, to defraud Congress and the Rackets Committee.

Trossel said from Feb. 12 through March 13 this year Hoffa and Fischbach teamed up to deprive the Rackets Committee of the services of its staff investigator, Cheasty, and to make the committee of secrets about witnesses it intended to call and what they would be asked.

Trossel said Hoffa wanted to know anything the committee dug up on the Teamsters Union.

The prosecutor said Hoffa arranged a secret system for Cheasty to reach him through Hoffa's Detroit office. Trossel said Cheasty would call and ask for "Diane" and then say "This is Eddie Smith calling." When Cheasty then would hang up, Hoffa would call back, Trossel said.

Among Mrs. Lebow's own innovations was the "fashionable" dress.

"Nothing is all," said Mrs. Lebow. "If he knows what colors and fabrics suit him best — and isn't afraid of trying something new now and then."

Among Mrs. Lebow's own innovations was the "fashionable" dress.

Governors Real Cool to Ike's Finance Plan

By JACK BELL

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — President Eisenhower got one of the coldest receptions of his career last night when he proposed that the nation's governors work with him to turn back to the states some of the programs Washington is financing.

In a formal address to the 40th annual Governors' Conference, Eisenhower held out the prospect of a federal tax reduction if some of the functions—and their fields of taxation—could be turned back to state control.

Republican governors gave qualified endorsement to his proposal for creation of a joint federal-state task force to study the question of reviving state control of some of the activities the federal government has taken over.

Democratic governors were almost uniformly critical. Their comments were keyed by the observation of Democratic Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota that "this is just another great big dreamboat."

Eisenhower put plenty of enthusiasm and what some of his closest aides said was "complete sincerity" into appeal to reverse what the President said was a "trend toward centralization of government."

The concrete results of a 20-minute presidential appeal added up mostly to silence on the part of the governors and their official families.

Eisenhower got applause when he arose to speak. He got a smattering of hand-clapping halfway through his address. He got the usual applause for a president when he concluded.

But the over-all effect produced from GOP Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, the observation: "I'm convinced nothing can be done about it." McKeldin has been one of Eisenhower's staunchest critics.

Eisenhower, who flew here for the "night stay," suggested that the proposed federal-state task force concentrate on a single program where there is duplication of state and federal effort. He said the cost in state taxes of carrying out the program should be compared with the cost in federal taxes.

"This effort presupposes that federal taxes would be cut more than state taxes would be raised to support the transferred functions," Eisenhower said. "The elimination of the federal overhead—stopping, in other words, the 'freight charges' on money being hauled from the state to Washington and back a bill, I remind you, that is always collected in full—would save the American taxpayer a tidy sum."

The projects were included in five jobs on which bids were asked. The five jobs will cost approximately $3,200,000.

One project calls for two overpass bridges, two bridges over the Saline River Relief, and two bridges over the Saline River—all on a new I-49 highway from Benton and part of the proposed Interstate Texas-Kansas-Benton facility.

While these bridges will be part of the eventual 4-lane thruway from Texarkana to Little Rock, their immediate completion will serve the new Little Rock-Hot Springs route.

A contract has been let for two lanes of surfacing on major portions of the new Benton-Hot Springs route.

Another job being advertised today also involves the new highway to Hot Springs. It calls for bridges on the Hot Springs end where a portion of the road was late in getting put under contract because of a right of way dispute.

Another job calls for 12 miles of pavement on two additional lanes on Highway 61 between Marion and Turrell in east Arkansas.

The other projects are for nine miles of surfacing on Highway 39 in Woodruff County on the Hillman-Morton road and a bridge over East Cadron Creek on Highway 36 in White County.

Early cotton is putting on squares and blooms are appearing in a few fields. Only a small acreage remains to be planted and, due to the lateness of the season, planting will fall short of the allotted acres in some counties. Overwintered boll weevils and thrip have been reported in some counties but the damage so far has been slight.

Seeding of rice is virtually complete, although some late varieties still are being sown in a few counties. The crop as a whole is making good progress with generally good stands.

Many acres of soybeans were planted last week the report said, and many more will be planted during the next few days if weather permits. Early soybeans are making satisfactory progress.

Corn is making good growth and a sizeable acreage of late corn was planted last week. Peach growers continue to market their crop; watermelons have begun showing improvement; the potato harvest is nearing completion and the tomato harvest is in full swing in south Arkansas.

Cumbers, snap beans and sweet corn also are at the marketing stage.

British Offer Dog for Use by Blind Scholar

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Express offered today to provide a British seeing eye dog for Davis Duty of Rogers, Ark., so the blind American can study law at London University on a Fulbright Scholarship.

Duty, 22, has his own guide dog, a 5-year-old German Shepherd named Binney. But Binney's training has refused to waive its six-month quarantine period for all dogs entering the country. Duty's scholarship is good only in England, and he says he cannot come without Binney.

The Express said it communicated its offer to Duty by transatlantic telephone. It proposed that he take a month's training course with a British dog at the Guide Dogs for the Blind Association in Leamington Spa.

"The paper said Duty replied: 'All guide dogs are one-man dogs — they are trained that way. What would Binney do while I was away?'"

"Then what would I do with my British guide dog when I got back to the states and could I ever have another dog as good and true as Binney when I got home again?"

"On the other hand my year in Britain is the only way in which I can achieve my ambition to become an international lawyer."

William Gaines, secretary of the Fulbright Scholarship Commission in London, said he thought the Daily Express offer was "wonderful."

"If Duty accepts the idea," said Gaines, "we will add another month gladly to his scholarship for the guide dog training."

In the past 25 years 23 imported dogs have died of rabies while in quarantine in Britain, according to official records.

AHC Ready to Complete L. R., Spa Link

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Highway Department today advertised for bids on bridges and overpasses to complete a link in the new Little Rock to Hot Springs route.

The projects were included in five jobs on which bids were asked. The five jobs will cost approximately $3,200,000.

Man Convicted in Murder Trial

SHERIDAN (AP) — A young Grant County man, accused of shooting his uncle to death, was convicted last night of second degree murder.

The circuit court jury fixed punishment for Eugene (Red) Dixon, 23, of near Sheridan, originally charged with first degree murder, at 21 years imprisonment. Prosecutor H. B. Means has sought the death penalty.

Dixon was charged with the fatal shooting of Otis Jones, 47, on Jan. 20 at a service station 12 miles south of here. He claimed self defense, contending that he thought Jones was reaching for a shotgun.

U. S. Proposes Army Cutbacks to 1.7 Million

LONDON (UP) — The United States formally proposed today that American and Soviet armed forces be reduced in three successive stages to a level of 1,700,000 men each.

U.S. Delegate Harold E. Stassen made the proposal to Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin at the London five-power disarmament conference.

Britain and France joined the United States and proposed that their forces also be reduced in three steps to 650,000 men each. Canada, the fifth member of the conference, also welcomed the Western plan.

Zorin, the Soviet delegate, reserved his position on the U.S. proposal.

The United States now has 2,800,000 in its armed forces. Russia has an estimated 2,500,000.

Stassen, who is gradually unfolding the U.S. disarmament plan, proposed that U.S. and Russian armed forces be reduced first to a 2,500,000 level, then to 2,100,000 on finally to 1,700,000 men each.

But the United States, Britain and France made it clear that the last two stages of the manpower cuts would be conditional on the solution of political problems. They did not specify what type of East-West problems would have to be resolved.

Surplus Feed for Hempstead Flooded Areas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Civil Defense Director Owe Payne Jr. was notified yesterday that federal surplus feed grain would be delivered for use in feeding livestock in four flood-stricken southwest Arkansas counties.

The four are Lafayette, Little River, Hempstead and Miller counties.

Deliveries from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks at Dallas will be made up to July 6 to maintain distressed stock until July 16.

Distressed stock was described as flood stranded animals for which owners are not supplying feed for animals owned by persons financially unable to provide feed.

Payne said he had ordered enough feed to maintain 26,745 head of livestock. The feed will be distributed by county judges.

At least two Southwest Arkansas cities, Hope included, were dropped from consideration by a group making a secret survey for location of a new industrial plant.

This was revealed by Chamber of Commerce President Ray Turner who appealed to the public to boost Hope and Hempstead at all times. . . . the appeal is to businessmen, merchants, station operator and others. . . . he said the recent survey was made with out knowledge of any officials. . . . thus there was no opportunity to present facts and data that might have led to favorable reaction on the part of the prospective industrialist. . . . Mr. Turner warned other surveys were expected in the near future and appealed for cooperation of everyone in boosting and praising Hope. . . . a city of friendly people, good churches, schools, hospitals and other fine points which the city certainly has.

Miss Sheila Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Foster and Bill Lawrence, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. T. Cost of Living Continues Upward Climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living rose three-tenths of 1 per cent in May to its ninth consecutive month reported today.

The increase, combined with a shorter work week, resulted in a drop of one-half of 1 per cent in the real earnings of factory workers last month, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

Almost one million workers will receive wage boosts under union-management contracts going pay raises to the consumer price index.

Some 750,000 men and women in the metals industries — steel, iron mining, aluminum, and metal containers—qualified for four-cent hourly increases under their semi-annual cost-of-living adjustments; 115,000 meat-packing workers won three-cent hourly increases; 53,000 aircraft workers gained two cents under their contracts, which are adjusted quarterly; and 22,000 additional aircraft workers gained one cent an hour.

The consumer price index last month stood at 119.3 per cent of the 1947-49 average, or 3.6 points above a year ago.

The average of prices paid by city families, as measured by BLS, has risen steadily in each of the last 15 months with the sole exception of last August.

Egypt, Syria Axis Shatters Arab World

By WESB-NBEY
DAMASCUS — The Egyptian-Syrian axis swung still further from the rest of the Arab world today in the wake of Saudi Arabia's threat to break relations with Damascus.

Observers here believed some face-saving solution would be found to avert an open break with the Saudis, enraged over Syrian press attacks on King Saud.

Saudi Arabia's ambassador to Damascus warned Syrian President Shukri Kuwattli Sunday that the break would come unless Syrian papers stopped the Syrian campaign begun when Saudi backed Jordan's King Hussein.

The attacks reached their climax last week when the Damascus paper Alrai Alalam said a former Egyptian foreign minister and 10 Egyptian army officers were being held in Cairo charged with plotting President Nasser's death. The paper quoted the accused as saying Saud was behind the conspiracy.

Alrai Alalam said Saudi authorities had denied any connection with the alleged plot. But the fact that they connected Saudi with it at all pushed Saudi Arabia's indignation to the boiling point.

The Saudi ambassador in Damascus, Sheikh Abdul Aziz ben Zeid shut down most of his embassy and took his family to Beirut. Kuwattli called an emergency Cabinet session after the envoy delivered his ultimatum. Later Syrian Foreign Minister Salah Bitar appealed to Syria's press to refrain from further attacks on King Saud.

Premier Sabri Assall told news-men contacts were under way with Saudi officials to clear clouds looming over our countries' relations. We hope these contacts

The vote was the first parliamentary showdown for the 42-year-old Premier since his coalition of middle-road and Socialist members came to power less than two weeks ago.

Bourges-Maunoury went into the confidence test with a terse speech in which he warned the Assembly that there is no way to reduce the bills France must pay.

Support from the left-center Popular Republicans (MRP) and most of the conservative Independent Republicans provided his margin of victory. Voting against the government were the left and right extremes, the Communists and Poujadists, augmented by followers of former Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

The next major issue for the new government is slated for July 2, when the treaties for the six-nation Common Market and the joint development of nuclear energy-Buratom—come up for ratification. This is expected to be the key debate so far as the two treaties are concerned. Qualified observers agree that if France ratifies the accords, the parliaments in Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg will quickly follow suit.

Bourges-Maunoury intends to make the ratification an issue of confidence to help push the agreements through.

Worry-Wart Fiance Is Asking Too Much

Dear Dorothy Dix: My fiance though in perfect health, has an idea he will die and leave me either as a bride-to-be or as his wife. He is demanding a promise that in either case I won't marry. I say he's selfish. We're both middle-aged. —

ALTHEA
Dear Althea: The whole discussion strikes me as being the ultimate in silliness. It would be much more constructive to plan how you'll live together and how you'll solve concrete problems that are bound to arise. Leave something to the Lord.

Dear Dorothy Dix: In September, my husband plans to go to college and I will go with him, to work. We will have to leave our six-month-old baby with his great-grandmother. As my husband's course will carry on through summers for three years, we'll only see the baby for special weekends. Do you think this is a wise move? —

MRS. T. D.
Dear Mrs. T. D.: No one has a higher respect for education than I do, but even the most avid scholar would reconsider your situation.

Your family should not be broken. If schooling means so much to your husband, have him continue at night and work days. This was an angle that should have been more carefully thought out before you married.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm in an awful fix! My cousin is arranging a date for me with a boy. I met twice and like very much. I'm only 14, this is my first date, and I don't know how to act.

SCARED STIFF
Dear Scared Stiff: This column is too short to include a complete code of behavior, so I urgently suggest that you get hold of a good book on teen-age dating. One I can recommend is Joyce Jackson's "Guide to Dating." It's published by Prentice-Hall and costs $3.95. Your library might have it, or a few babysitting sessions will earn the money to buy it.

There are many other books dealing with the same subject. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my Teen-Age Book List.

Dear Dorothy Dix: One day I overheard my mother tell a neighbor I had an inferiority complex. Now everyone in town is discussing it. My boy friend, George, heard about it, and has stopped calling. —

APRIL
Dear April: "Inferiority complex" is as common among adolescents as acne. Believe me, no one is especially interested in yours. Whatever the neighborhood is discussing, it is not your complex. Find another reason for George's indifference.

will lead to restoration of unity with Arab lands in the face of dangers surrounding us."

The Syria-Egypt alliance drew fire from another quarter. Iraq and Jordan announced their determination to resist subversion and warned the two leftist partners not to meddle.

A communique issued last night at the end of Jordan King Hussein's visit to his royal cousin, Faisal of Iraq, declared both nations must "maintain the independence of their states and safeguard the independence of all Arab states."

The communique said the two Arab monarchs "announced their determination to resist subversive movements and every danger threatening their independence."

"They decided that every Arab country should not interfere in the internal affairs of any other Arab country," the statement added.

A cool 61 degrees was registered early today at Little Rock, and the U. S. Weather Bureau said the temperature was a record low for the capital city for this date.

The unseasonable summer-time spring was expected to continue through tomorrow with the forecast calling for high temperatures today in the 60s and in the 60s again to-night across Arkansas.

The first U. S. federal taxes were on distilled liquors.

Hopes Curb Move Won't Be a Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bush (R-Conn.) said today he hopes a Senate hearing on proposals to curb filibusters won't itself turn into a filibuster.

(D-Ga.) and Javits (R-N.Y.) — co-chairmen of a special subcommittee conducting the hearings — Bush urged adoption of previous proposals he has made to curb debate in the Senate.

The subcommittee is holding hearings on proposed changes in the Senate's cloture rule — which now requires the votes of 64 senators, two thirds of the entire membership, to impose a time limit on debate.

The term filibuster is applied to the device of talking a bill to death by debating it until its supporters give up.

Bush noted he has introduced a resolution which would permit debate to be limited by two thirds of the senators present and voting, instead of two thirds of the entire body.

Another provision, Bush said, would eliminate the present prohibition against a time limit on debating any proposal to change

Farmer Believed Electrocuted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The decomposed body of a farmer with a severe electrical burn on the right hand was found yesterday at nearby Camp Robinson, police said.

Pulaski Deputy Pete Schmuck identified the dead man as Paul F. Crow, about 33, of the Olmstead Community in Pulaski County, who had been reported missing by relatives more than a week ago.

Deputy Coroner Gordon Holt said Crow died from electric shock, apparently when he tried to cut a 4,160-volt line. He said two lines carrying less dangerous voltage were cut.

Civilian guards found the body in a ditch when they investigated a dangling power line.

Camp Robinson officials said Crow was not employed at the Army base. Crow is survived by his parents and a young son who lives with his former wife.

Woman's Body Found in Home

BLYTHEVILLE (AP) — The body of a woman, who apparently killed herself about two weeks ago, was found today in her home 1 1/2 miles west of Leachville, Mississippi County Coroner J. R. Stovall said.

Stovall said Grayce Billingsley, about 64, who wrote in a note "I'm not feeling so well tonight," died of a bullet wound in the head. A .38 caliber pistol was found beside the body, he said.

The note found by officers was addressed to the dead woman's mother for whom a search was launched.

County authorities quoted neighbors as saying they knew of no relatives of the dead woman, who had lived alone.

Phrase's Origin

Origin of the phrase, "admitted to the bar," stems from the Inns of Court in London. A student became a full-fledged barrister when he finally was allowed to leave his seat in the outer court and present a case at the wooden rail, or bar, behind which the judges sat.

Senate rules

"These changes," Bush said, "in my judgment, are the minimum which should be made."

"While I believe that extended debate should be permitted in the Senate as a safeguard against over-hasty action, it is intolerable that our prized freedom of speech should be perverted into a weapon to club down the rights of a majority," he said.

Southern opponents of civil rights legislation already have promised a filibuster when a House-passed civil rights bill comes before the Senate, possibly sometime next month.

SUBSTITUTE DOCTOR

UNLATCHING the gate at the foot of the Shelton lawn, he turned impulsively and said, "Valley, could you help me with the well-baby clinic?"

"At the hospital?" She looked and sounded and acted as if he'd suddenly extended a snake. She stepped backward, her eyes went round and her cheeks paled.

He put his hand on her arm. "Garde," she told him. "Hospitals give me the creeps. Doctors — the smell of medicine —"

She shuddered again, and there was no pretense about it. Her version was real. Psychoanalytic it might have been, but real, just the same.

But why so — he asked her. "Well, that's the way I feel. And it is not silly! Really, Garde, mine is an intellectual aversion, though perhaps extreme." She smiled at him, and he shook his head.

"I'll say for your comfort," she went on as they began to climb the steep slope of the lawn, "that my editors agree with you — and have decided that most of my readers would. They've made the whole subject of medicine taboo with me. An they ruthlessly blue pencil any grace of my attitude out of the things I write."

"But why, Valley? Why do you feel this special way toward my profession, toward us doctors?"

"Oh," she said solemnly. "It has nothing to do with you doctors as men!"

He snored again, and she laughed. "It is," he assured her, "entirely unnecessary for you to flirt with me, Valley Stanford."

She stopped at the break in the hedge which separated the back lawns of their homes. "It's no trouble at all," she assured him, her voice cooing like a dove's.

It was the middle of the next week — Thursday morning — when Nan called to Garde and asked him if he'd come over and eat dinner at their house that night. He was working in the garage, moving things to make room for the car which he had bought.

"To dinner? Oh, sure. Rosebud's cooking — and your company. . . ." He was happy to have her friendly again.

"You'll have to make out with the cooking. I won't be there. Patty Copeland's giving a shower for the Kibblers, the young ones. That's my crowd, you know, and I go to all such festivities."

I thought you could keep Valley company. Dad has invited Dr. Lillard — our house is the only place the old gentleman goes."

Dinner was as delicious as Garde had come to expect Rosebud's meals to be; even a sandwich took on magic from her touch.

All through dinner, old Dr. Lillard had seemed to watch Valley anxiously, and she had sought to ignore his questioning gaze. That, Garde, was why Nan had asked Garde to "keep Valley company." All doctors make Valley nervous.

Though Garde was a doctor, too.

He sighed and pushed his coffee cup away from him, then reached into his pocket for his pipe.

Valley wrinkled her nose, and he grinned. "I'll sit upwind. Or is it downwind? I fear I'm not nautical enough for these parts."

He lit his pipe and spoke clearly enough that the men might hear should they care to listen.

"You didn't give me an answer last week, Valley," he said, "when I asked you to help me with my well-baby clinic."

"Did you really expect one?"

"Why, of course, I asked you in good faith. I hoped you'd want to help with a thing of that sort. Surely its purpose would appeal to you. To make available to children under school age such medical service as would prevent the illnesses common to children and to detect chronic things like the need for eye correction, hearing faults, deviations in heart function."

"Some of the hospital nurses have agreed to give time to the clinic, and I hoped you'd be willing to keep our records and perhaps make such social service calls as would be desirable. It would give you a lot of satisfaction and —"

"Oh, for heaven's sake, Garde." She jumped to her feet, her full skirts bobbing around her slender ankles. She walked to the rail, leaned her hands upon it and gazed out at the gathering dusk.

"You know how I feel about all such things."

He puffed upon his pipe and nodded. "Yes, I know. But, seriously, Valley, you're a big girl now and should try to get over this aversion which you have for hospitals and doctors."

"Why?" she asked.

Garde well remembered Nan's story of her mother's death, but for his own purpose tonight — as a test.

"I think," he said between audible puffs upon the pipe stem. "I am almost sure — that you're feeling traces from the tragedy you all went through last year. You talked to me last week of the hurt you felt you had done your sister and that feeling alone would explain —"

She was furious. Her sauntered foot stamped her rage, her full skirts whirled in the high wind of her anger, her fingers curled into claws, and her eyes blazed. "Oh, the dear Lord deliver me!" she

Plans for River Channels Reviewed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Plans of Army Engineers for time of foot channels on the Arkansas and Verdigris Rivers will be reviewed at a public hearing here on July 18.

Purpose is to get public reaction on preliminary studies for the navigable channels from the mouth of the Arkansas to Catosau, Okla., near Tulsa, by means of a series of locks and dams.

The preliminary plans call for a channel bottom width of at least 250 feet on the Arkansas and 150 feet on the Verdigris, which flows into the Arkansas near Muskogee, Okla.

cried in a tone of thin intensity, "not another psychologist!"

And then, against his will a thought, an idea, came to him. Cold penetrated his innermost tomorrow.

One of Many Chosen for TV Acting

By CHARLES MERCER.

NEW YORK (AP) — Trains, airplanes and buses continue to bring large numbers of hopeful young aspirants to this mecca of show business and television on the Hudson.

Many came, and, failing to succeed as actors or writers or technicians, drifted into other lines of work or go back home. A very few are chosen. Here is one of them:

His name is Warren Beatty and he comes from Arlington, Va. He's a lean, intelligent youth, of 20 who arrived in New York a year ago, determined to become an actor.

Tomorrow evening, he plays the title role in "The Curly-Headed Kid" on Television Theatre.

Raymond Massey stars in the drama about a boy in serious trouble and a crusading columnist accused of cynicism when he drops the boy after taking up his cause in a series of headline-making articles.

Born in Richmond, Va., Warren graduated from Washington and Lee High School in Arlington, where he played football. Because he wanted to become an actor, he turned down football scholarships at 10 colleges and went to North Western University for a year.

"Northwestern has a good drama school," he said, "but the theater is here in New York, and if you want to be in the theater, why not go where the theater is?"

Coming here, he enrolled in Selma Adler's School of Acting. He supported himself playing piano at small clubs around Brooklyn and Manhattan. Later he took a job as a sandhog working on the new tube of the Lincoln Tunnel.

"Maybe I've just been lucky," he said of his role on television. "But I think there are plenty of showcases in New York for anybody who wants to be an actor. People come to acting schools and watch you work. If you're good they say so, and if you're bad they say so."

Warren obtained the title role in "The Curly-Headed Kid" after his agent induced him to read for it. He has appeared once briefly on television in the CBS-TV Sunday morning religious program Lamp Unto My Feet.

One should remember this: for every Warren Beatty you read about, there are a couple of hundred who never make it.

Missouri Pacific

Railroad

RUSSELL L. DEARMONT

Our Obligation ... to You Your Obligation ... to Us

The MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD, although privately owned and financed, is a publicly regulated common carrier. It recognizes that it must at all times so conduct its affairs as to discharge these four basic obligations:

- 1. TO OUR PATRONS: Our first responsibility is to provide the finest possible transportation service at a cost low enough to make it useful and attractive to our patrons but high enough to insure adequate earnings to enable us to discharge our other obligations.
- 2. TO OUR EMPLOYEES: The Missouri Pacific is manned by a dedicated army of men and women. All of them share a determination to uphold our reputation as "A Service Institution". We believe that in order to attract and retain people who will uphold the finest standards in railroading, workers must not only be adequately paid and provided with good working conditions, but their merits must be recognized and an opportunity for advancement provided.
- 3. TO OUR STOCKHOLDERS: We firmly believe that the transportation needs of the nation can best be met by private enterprise. This entails, however, the obligation to give to those whose money has made the enterprise possible a fair return on their investment—a profit, if you please.
- 4. TO THE COMMUNITIES WE SERVE: Our prosperity is closely geared to that of the communities in which we live and work. To aid in the economic growth of Missouri Pacific territory we maintain an Industrial Development Department, which during the postwar period was instrumental in locating on our lines almost 4,000 new industries, with an estimated capital investment of more than $1 1/2 billion.

Such are our obligations, and we intend to discharge them to the very best of our ability.

We hope, however, that you share our belief that the public has some obligation to us as an essential, publicly regulated industry... the obligation to insist that "horse-and-buggy-day" government regulations imposed on the railroads seventy years ago be modernized. In brief, your American railroads, in order to most effectively discharge all of their obligations, must be allowed to compete on equal terms with other forms of transportation. You, the public, can help us in this, and by so doing will best serve your own and your community's interests.

Thus is our fortune linked with yours. Together let us build a bigger and better West-Southwest Empire.

"Lasting Value is the thing that sold me on Olds!"

GOLDEN ROCKET IN HOLIDAY COUPE

Attendant: Well, I've looked at Olds from every angle, underneath, under the hood, and I can tell you—Olds really knows how to put 'em together!

Owner: Yes, and Olds has style that you know will stay in style. Ever check on how much more you get for an Olds trade-in?

Attendant: You get more than lots of higher priced cars bring.

Owner: Right! The way Oldsmobile value lasts makes it a smart investment. And there's lots more...

Attendant: Sure, take that Rocket Engine... there's still nothing quite like it. I always talk it up, even though the new J-2 Rocket does mean I pump less gas.

Owner: When you add it up, and take a look at the price—it really makes sense to own an Olds.

Attendant: That's for sure. I'm driving a Golden Rocket 88, too! And more and more of my customers are going over to Oldsmobile.

*Rocket 1-400 engine, with 272 h.p., standard on all models.

Officer Admits Mishandling Information

By BEN PRICE
HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A 10-man general courtmartial today found Army Col. John C. Nickerson Jr. guilty of permitting secret documents to fall into the hands of "unauthorized persons."

The verdict came within minutes after the lean and graying missile expert pleaded guilty to 15 counts of violating army regulations concerning the handling of secret documents.

Shortly before Nickerson's surprise admission that he disobeyed orders, the government dropped its major charge—espionage and false swearing—against the 41-year old West Point graduate.

Nickerson now faces a maximum sentence of 30 years imprisonment and a dishonorable discharge.

Immediately after its finding of guilty, the 10-man court recessed. The next move will be the introduction of what is known in courtmartial procedure as "extenuating circumstances."

Under this procedure, which comes before Nickerson's sentence is fixed, the defense is expected to bring up Nickerson's motives in doing what he did.

The court-martial of the World War II hero—two Silver Stars for gallantry—started from Nickerson's one man fight against an order last November by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson limiting the Army to use and development of a 200-mile range missile.

Nickerson contends the Army should be permitted to develop and employ a 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missile.

It was his effort to enlist support for his arguments that resulted in his use of secret data to certain congressmen, editors and industrial sources.

Nickerson admitted release of secret data to persons outside the Army.

The lean and graying Nickerson, a mathematical whiz, told reporters yesterday he deliberately sought to obtain modifications of Wilson's order.

"I intended to go anonymously," he continued, "to influence certain key people to help modify Wilson's decision."

Then Nickerson added: "My goal... has been to obtain permission for the Army to use the IRBM."

When the court-martial board was convened at 9 a.m. Nickerson faced 18 charges of disobedience of orders, perjury and espionage.

Within minutes after the long heralded trial opened, Nickerson had entered his guilty plea and the government had dropped its espionage accusation.

The colonel told reporters during a brief pause in court proceedings he was greatly relieved by the government's action. "I always hoped," he said, "they would drop those charges. I felt somewhat bitter that they didn't before."

HUNTSVILLE, la. Army Col. John C. Nickerson Jr. today pleaded guilty to 15 charges that he disobeyed orders in the handling of secret information.

Nickerson's surprise plea came just a few minutes after the government dropped its espionage charge against the missile expert at the very opening of his trial by

Reunion of Davis Blues Held Back in June 1890

AN EARLY REUNION, one of the oldest pictures the Star has received, was turned in by Earl Holt of Nashville, Tenn. At Nashville on June 18, 1890 the 25th anniversary of its organization, a Davis Blues reunion was held. There were 35 living members, but apparently only 17 were present; the rest having moved from the area.

Front row, left to right: Mrs. Jesse W. Holt, Mrs. Peter Coulter, Mrs. Ed Clingan, Mrs. Charles F. Williams; middle row: Joseph Leland, Reed, Simon McGowan, Jesse Thomas Holt, John Henry Bell, Daniel C. Cowling, Charles F. Williams, Augustus S. Hutchinson and Edward Clingan; Top row: Emmett Thompson, Jackson Clingan, John S. Bateman, George M. Clark, James Mansford Holt, Wilson P. Wallace, William Henry Briggs, David M. Goodlett and Hogan Beane.

The final survivor of the organization was Wilson P. Wallace of Olan who died July 11, 1938.

Ft. Smith to Integrate in September

FORT SMITH (AP)—Fort Smith schools will start next September on a previously accepted plan of gradual racial integration, the School Board decided unanimously last night.

Desegregation will begin at the first grade level. At beginning of the following school year, the second grade also will be included and so on until the entire 12 grades are integrated.

The board, however, said that no pupil would be required to attend a school in which his race is in the minority. He will be permitted, on request, to transfer to the nearest school in which most of the pupils are of his racial group.

The board accepted a report recommending the upward gradual integration a year ago, and announced last month it would take a vote last night on whether to put the plan in operation at beginning of the next semester.

About 45 persons attended last night's meeting, but there was no discussion of the matter.

Defense Attorney Robert K. Bell of Huntsville told the 10-man courtmartial board Nickerson was pleading guilty to the reduced list of charges "in view of the fact that charge two and each specification involving espionage and false swearing has been dismissed."

The trial then was adjourned for consultation on the next step.

The court is expected to hear arguments later today for a light sentence or no sentence at all. After the arguments the court will retire for secret deliberations to fix Nickerson's sentence.

Later yesterday defense attorney Robert K. Bell strongly hinted he thought the Army was going to use the "classified evidence gimmick" to close the courtroom to reporters frequently though, in fact the testimony might not involve security data at all.

The court-martial of the 1938 graduate of West Point was brought on by his challenge of the Charles E. Wilson's order last November limiting the Army to development and use of a 200-mile-range missile.

Gromyko Is Backing Down on Arms Plan

By ROY ESSOYAN

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko charged today that the United States is using the London disarmament negotiations as a screen to continue and intensify the arms race.

In the first news conference called by a Soviet foreign minister since Nov. 30, 1953, Gromyko demanded that the United States either put a stop to "aggressive and incendiary" statements by its political and military leaders or tacitly admit aggressive intentions.

Gromyko took his text chiefly from recent testimony by U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme NATO commander in Europe, in which Norstad told a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Russia faces a sure and "absolute" destruction from the air if she attacks the West.

Reading a prepared statement, Gromyko commented: "If the United States, a participant in the talks on disarmament, really wishes to help achieve the necessary agreement among the powers, then there can be no place for aggressive and warmongering speeches like Norstad's."

"But if Norstad and other champions of the cold war reflect the real policy of the United States, then how is one to evaluate the U. S. role in the disarmament talks? Are not these talks being used as a screen to continue and intensify the arms race?"

"The answer can only come from the government of the United States."

New French Actress Likes American Men

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Etchika Choureau is a French pastry with a jaw-breaking name, a lovely face full of freckles and an admiration for American men.

"They are so beautiful," she says in hesitant English.

There's nothing hesitant about the doll beside her handling of a new language. She's bright and sharp and knows where she's going. It could be to top stardom in Hollywood.

About the name it is destined to be the most mispronounced handle from France since Simone Simon. For the purists, it should be Ayl-checka Shoo-row. But she's resigned to hearing a dozen different versions.

Here are some of her impressions:

"American men are so beautiful. They are very big, strong and muscular, compared with French men. I like that."

"Are Frenchmen more romantic I do not know. In France, when a boy takes a girl out, they go alone to lunch or dinner. I have not done that in Hollywood. Here, they seem to go to parties or other people's homes."

"I have been to some of the night clubs in Hollywood, but they are so empty. In Paris, the night clubs are filled. Here, there is nobody. All the entertaining seems to be done in homes. That is nice for the married people, but not for the single ones."

"I like it here, but I do not think I could stay all the time. My family is in France. The only thing I do not like is the heat. It is much too hot."

Etchika was born 23 years ago on the small island of Reunion, near French Corsica. That was the summer home of her parents; her father was a Paris auto dealer. She made her debut in French films five years ago and has done 15 pictures.

One of them, "The Fruits of Summer," was seen by director William Wellman. He was looking for a French girl to play opposite Tab Hunter in Wellman's sentimental salute to his days in the Lafayette Escondido. The film is

Ike Returns From Governor's Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to Washington at 9:25 a. m. today from the Governors' Conference at Williamsburg, Va.

He was delayed 40 minutes at Langley Air Force Base, Va., by electrical trouble in the starting mechanism of the Columbine III, his personal plane, and finally had to make the return flight in a borrowed Air Force plane.

Eisenhower flew to Langley late yesterday and motored between there and Williamsburg, where he spent the night.

The delay made Eisenhower late for a scheduled conference with Republican legislative leaders at the White House.

But he seemed unruffled by the now called "With You in My Arms."

incident. He laughed and joked with Air Force officers who greeted him at the Military Air Transport Service terminal here.

The White House announced that the weekly session with Republican congressional leaders, set for 9 a.m. was called off until later in the week.
